In today's increasingly technological world, there is hardly a square inch of the globe that is not under some kind of real time observation. There are webcams fastened to poles at intersections and along highways, in lobbies and parks throughout our cities, to a tree or boulder in some remote wilderness, and even to satellites orbiting our planet.

It is from this cyber world that photographer Roger Minick, inspired by the modernist tradition of appropriation of found objects, has screen-captured raw data from hundreds of webcams and then digitally transformed the resulting images into the book WEB.CAM, a compelling look into a world we only thought we knew.

Perambulation Press offers WEB.CAM in a limited edition of 100. The book (74 high-quality full-color reproductions) is hardbound (9"x11") with dust jacket, and includes an original, signed and numbered 13"x13" print from the book, purchaser's choice. Signed and numbered book and print: $200.
